Six non-operating concerns were in the group of 18 large mills having annual capacities of to mlb.m; per annum. The 12 active members of this group had reduced their collective output to 38 percent of their boom-period production. For the 18 largest mills as a whole, the 1932 cut was a bit less than 28 percent of pre-1930 production. In the size-class producing from M to Mia year each between 1923 and 1930, 15 out of 26 mills were idle. The 1932 output of the active mills in this class was only 19 percent of the past combined production of the whole group.
