Excerpt from Funeral Oration: Delivered Before the Citizens of Boston, Assembled at the Old South Church, Nov. XVII, at the Burial Gaspar Spurzheim, M. D., Of the Universities of Vienna and Paris, and Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians in London The death of his wife, which took place about three years since, seemed to remind him more strongly that his life and his labors belonged to all mankind, whose vital interests he thought most effectually to promote by developing particularly the principles of education, morality, and religion, to which his studies of human nature had led him. He had visited England again in 1825, and was engaged partly in lecturing, and partly in the publication of different books. The first work he had published in England, the Physiognomical System, contained several summary views of different branches of anthropology, which he now endeavored to make more generally appreciated, by extending the principal chapters, and making them separate books. In one of them, Phrenology, he treats of the different powers of the mind, and their cerebral organs, in general. A smaller book, Outline: of Five nology, is an abstract of that work. The two principal doctrines of Phrenology, that of the brain, and that of the mind, were carried out in different works.
