Excerpt from Edinburgh Medical Journal, Vol. 7: Combining the Monthly Journal of Medicine and the Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal. Catherine Reilley, t. 32. Strangulated femoral hernia. Down thirty-six hours. Sac opened. Bowel returned. Cured. 4. Mrs Notman. Had been troubled with an oblique inguinal hernia for six years, which, however, was always readily reduced, with the exception of a small part which never could be kept up. On the day previous to admission into hospital it had again come down, and she had experienced severe twisting pain in the umbilical region, together with nausea, and vomiting, which, on the following day, became stereoraceous, when she was at once sent to hospital. On examination it was found that, in addition to the hernial protrusion of left side, there existed directly over the crural canal of the right side a hard, isolated, prominent, and well-defined swelling, about the size of a walnut, which patient stated had commenced a year ago and gradually enlarged. The protrusion on the opposite side could be easily returned within the external ring; but doubts being entertained as to...
