Forgotten Books, United States, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Woman: An Oration, Delivered Before the American Academy of Dental Science, Boston, November 7, 1883 Two days journey from Boston, half a century ago, the traveler would have found among the Green Mountains of Vermont a charming little village, situated upon a plateau, with a background of mountains, and a valley bounding it on three sides. Across the valley other mountain peaks arose in every direction, breaking and beautifying the horizon line around the entire circle. The evening sunlight, and the morning sun as well, developed a landscape which for picturesque beauty can nowhere be excelled. The meadows and the pastures, the groves of pine, of beech and of maple, the quiet river, and the laughing, dashing brooks, the little cascades and the larger waterfalls, formed a scene which in certain conditions of the atmosphere became surpassingly enchanting. In the spring-time, when the river was swollen by freshets, the roar of a cataract higher than Niagara was heard for miles, and the meadows became a vast inland lake. No gorgeous sunsets ever exalted an enthusiast more than those which at times illuminated the ravines and faded away upon the mountain peaks.
