The line run by the Albatross from San Francisco to Tahiti starts in lat. 31 10 N. , long. 125 W. , and terminates at Tahiti off Pt. Venus about in lat. 17 30 S. , and long. , 149 30 W. That of the Challenger starting north of the Hawaiian Islands in lat. 38 9 N. , and long. 156 25 W. , and ending also at Tahiti, converges towards the line of the Albatross, so that we have an excellent opportunity of comparing the collections of the Challenger in the central Pacific with those obtained by the Albatross from the great red-clay and manganese-nodule area of the Pacific Ocean to the eastward. An examination of the results as recorded by Sir John Murray, 1 and those which I here give from the trawling of the Albatross show plainly that at...
