Excerpt from The Letter of Paula and Eustochium to Marcella, About the Holy Places (386 A. D.) I. If, after the Passion of our Lord, this place is accursed, as the wicked say that it is, what did St. Paul mean by hastening¹ to Jerusalem, that he might keep the day of Pentecost there Why did he address those who would have held him back, saying: What do ye, weeping and breaking my heart? For I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem, for the name of the Lord Jesus. 2 What did all those other holy and illustrious men mean, whose alms and oblations, after the preaching of Christ, were sent to the brethren who were at Jerusalem It would be a long task to mention, year by year, from the ascension of our Lord to the present day, how many bishops, how many martyrs, how many men eloquent in ecclesiastical learning, have come to Jerusalem, thinking themselves, to be lacking in religion and in learning, and not to have received, as the saying is, a full handful of virtues, unless they had adored Christ in those very places from which the Gospel first shone forth from the Cross. Indeed, if even a distinguished orator³ thought somebody worthy of blame because he. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
