

Grassroots View of Ancient Egypt

By Dr. Frederick Michael Monderson

SuMon Publishers. Paperback. Condition: New. 758 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 1.7in. GRASSROOTS VIEW OF ACIENT EGYPT - Looking for a solid book offering thoughtful and inquiring ideas reinforced by wonderful photographic imagery, then Grassroots View of Ancient Egypt is a remarkable foray into the provocative questions regarding the manner in which Nile Valley culture has been portrayed across the spectrum as viewed by the Man in the Street, and thus serves as a corrective and contribution to African historiographic reconstruction. That ancient Egypt is misrepresented in presentation and thus mis-understanding today as a result of early archaeological excavators rush to publish, Grassroots View is a compendium that adds tremendous depth to the discussion regarding Ancient Egypt and its impact throughout the Nile River cultural experience and as such is reflected in the Table of Contents as enumerated below: Culture and Spirituality in Ancient Africa; Afrocentricity: Development of the Filed Through the Expansion of Ideas; Were the Ancient Egyptians A Dual Race : An Afrocentric Critique of Arthur Keith's Article; Critique of an Afrocentric Piece; An Essay Distinguishing Africology from Another Discipline: History; The Magic of King Tutankhamon; Black Egypt and the Struggle for Inclusion; Celebrating Ivan Van Sertima; The...
