Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Man Forbid, and Other Essays John Davidson was born at Barrhead, in Renfrewshire, Scotland, on the eleventh of April, 1857. His father, the Reverend Alexander Davidson, was a minister of the Evangelical Union. The boy's training was hardly academic in the true sense of the word, and was limited to what he was inclined to gather in The Highlanders Academy in Greenock, where he acted as a sort of pupil teacher, and in the course of a single session at the University of Edinburgh. Leaving college in 1877, he wrote his first play, now known as An Unhistorical Pastoral, which, however, was not published until over ten years later. As a boy he had worked as an assistant in a chemical laboratory in Greenock, and later as assistant to the Town Analyst.
