Excerpt from Woman s Witchcraft: Or the Curse of Coquetry; A Dramatic Romance Even as when - ages gone - the soft, warm heart Of womanhood was mine, I welcomed friends Ye, only, make me half forget this curse Of being, which doth punish me. Roll on, Thou deep mouthed thunder - nearer! Let me bathe My soul amid thy terrors, which are joys To this undying, yet death-thirsting nature! Now, - to my task. Ye that do love this night More dire and terrible in your secret spells Than forked lightnings - Spirits that leap from hell To find a mocking heaven in human hearts Which ye can torture - gather near me now! There s work for you. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
