Excerpt from Report of the Work of the Court of Domestic Relations, 1913-1914 This court is a busy court. It does not adjourn, except for a few minutes at lunch time, until it has disposed of all the cases on the call for that day. The call is always heavy, but the parties are entitled to a patient and full hearing, and so it frequently happens that this court is sitting long after the regular adjournment hour of the Municipal Court. It is no unusual thing to have the officers, as well as the judge of the Court of Domestic Relations work twelve or even fourteen hours in one day. The amount of business, very heavy now and increasing steadily, points to the need of a branch court of Domestic Relations.
