Media Maestro Book Division. Paperback. Condition: New. 252 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.6in. This novel is based on the real life stories of three women who survived massacres, rape, and starvation during The Korean War, and their intimate relationship with a low ranking American Airman who is battling his own demons, from his failing marriage to his unfaithful stateside wife to his contentious relationship with his bigoted military boss. The authors year of duty in Koreas combat zone during the early 1950s is reflected in the detailed picture he paints of civilians struggling to survive the total loss of infrastructure and the special hazards three starving women face. The book title can be translated as The Girl (Josan) and the Rat (Jee), which refers to a giant rat that haunts the womens home in a war torn suburb of Seoul, and which is a metaphor for all the dangers that beset them. This is a gritty tale, far too realistic to be called a romance novel, but one in which love is a key to survival. It is not surprising that Thomas books tend to walk on the wild side, inasmuch as he was Lenny Bruces only collaborator, co authoring the comedy material on Bruces first three comedy albums and three screenplays, plus photographing his album covers, filming the pilot for the first feature, and booking him into critical career changing venues. Critics have described Thomas memoir, Lenny Bruce: The Making of a Prophet, in terms such as, He superbly evokes the atmosphere of the cheap Hollywood nightclubs and coffeehouses, and His work sometimes reads like a Bogart script. Thomas multi faceted career as a screenwriter, book author, photographer, cinematographer, filmmaker, and public relations executive spanned the latter half of the twentieth century, working for and with A list...
