Excerpt from Baptist Forward Movement: Chart and Plan of Organization In this Folder it is apescd to set forth some principles of organization in generai, and then to describe the particular organization by which it is designed the great work of the Forward Movement shall he brought home to every individual member in every church in the Convention. An organization is a machine. It would not be incorrect to speak of a watch or a motor car or a steam engine as an or ganization. But no one of these would be of any a vice to anyone without some centre of direction and contt And where the organization is composed oi human elclrx s the same principle obtains. That is to say, there can be no effec tive organization without leadership. It. May be that the leader is not superior to those who follow; but ii work is to he done his leadership must be recognized, and he must. Accept full responsibility for direction and control, in order that all the elements or his organization may be brought into and main tained in harmonious co-operat-ion, and directed toward one end. This is our apology, on the one hand, for every word of direction issuing from the Forward Movement Office, 223 ( hurch Street, Toronto; and, on the other hand, it 18 our argu ment, whereby we would persuade everyone who is appointed to any position of leadership in this Movement to accept full responsibility for the success of that part of the work he is specially charged to lead. Upon the same a.gamont we base our appeal to every individual church member in the Con vention to join in the great game...
