Excerpt from Infidel Death-Beds There is a great deal of truth in this vigorous passage. I fancy, however, that some of the dupes of priestcraft are not absolutely impregnable to terrestrial logic, and I discuss the subject for their sakes, even at the risk of being held guilty of ineptitude. Throughout the world the religion of mankind is deter mined by the geographical accident of their birth. In England men grow up Protestants; in Italy, Catholics; in Russia, Greek Christians; in Turkey, Mohammedans; in India, Brahmans; in China, Buddhists or Confucians. What they are taught in their childhood they believe in their man hood; and they die in the faith in which they have lived. Here and there a few men think for themselves. If they discard the faith in which they have been educated, they are never free from its in?uence. It meets them at every turn, and is constantly, by a thousand ties, drawing them back to the orthodox fold. The stronger resist this attraction, the weaker succumb to it. Between them is the average man, whose tendency will depend on several things. If he is isolated, or finds but few sympathis ers, he may revert to the ranks of faith; if he finds many of the same Opinion with himself, he will probably display more fortitude. Even Free thinkers are gregarious, and in the worst as well as the best sense of the words, the saying of Novalis is true My thought gains infinitely when it is shared by another.
