Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Ford Madox Hueffer Toward the end of this period Hueffer came to know well his neighbor Joseph Conrad and collaborated with him on two novels, The Inheritor; and Romance This marks for Hueffer the beginning of a rather industrious period of novel writing. He was already resuming connexion with London life although he retained his Kentish home. In the year 1911 he suddenly realized that he had grown up and wrote for his children, Christina and Katherine, Ancient Light; and Certain New Re ?ections, Memorie: of a Young Man. He tells them in the preface that he wants to preserve for them the story of his life, to save them pains he has suffered, and to compare his childhood days with theirs. This is another way of saying that his critical faculties have developed, a fact which is sufficiently attested by his collection of essays that appeared about the same time called The Critical Attitude. In the year 1914 he set himself down to the task of analyzing seriously the technique of Henry James, whose work he so much admired. Naturally...
