Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Coming He came to his own and his own knew him not. The vicar of the parish sat at his study table pen in hand, a sheet of paper before him. It was Saturday morning already and his weekly sermon was not yet begun. On Sundays, at the forenoon service, it was Mr. Perry-Hennington's custom to read an old discourse, but in the evening the rigid practice of nearly forty years required that he should give to the world a new and original homily. To a man of the vicar's mold this was a fairly simple matter. His rustic flock was not in the least critical. To the villagers of Penfold, a hamlet on the borders of Sussex and Kent, every word of their pastor was gospel. And in their pastor's own gravely deliberate words it was the gospel of Christ Crucified. There had been a time in the vicar's life when his task had sat lightly upon him.
