Frequently the stooks also are taken away--in which case no coal whatever is left. is Bella Laing, the village howdy, of whose death the following notice appeared in the Tyne Mercury of January 1, 1833: -- At Gateshead Fell, on Saturday last, Isabella Laing, in her 91st year. She practised as a midwife for many years in that place, and must have been present when many of its inhabitants, now living, made their first appearance on this transitory stage, as her practice was very extensive. She has passed respectably through life, and will be remembered for years to come, as the fortunate howdy of Gateshead Fell.
