Not much has been written in story or legend of a time before the great deluge of the world by flood. Throughout the collective history of human civilization, we are left with an imprint or memory of a turbulent past. If you were taught the history of the world as I was, man ascended as a civilized being approximately 8000 years ago. That includes caveman to the Iron Age. So according to science, modern humans have been around for only 200,000 years. That man had the same brain and features as us today. Shave him, give him a bath, put him in a suit and he could probably pass as any average person. I doubt if he would speak the language, and he probably has less accumulated heavy metals in his organs, but yea, he is us. Most authorities agree the world population was about 3-4 million around 10000 BC and today, roughly around 6 billion. If we evolved to our higher order starting 200,000 years ago and by the year 10,000 BC we were 4 million, that means in 188,000...
