Not illustrated. 1902 Excerpt: .new rum flowed in rivers, and a luxurious plenty of living prevailed. Seckel pears then grew like lumps of gold on high trees in solitary pastures, --quails whistled out of the grass in each meadow, --and people got up at three o clock in the morning. Then Angelo truly lived, --in those luxurious Revolutionary Arabian Nights, --all liberty and mugs of flip. He flourishes now but in stately dreams and gorgeous reminiscence. Once did he broach for me the secret of those holy days. The world s turned upside down, said he, sence I was a boy; there was cold, long winters then, --solid, --and the bast o hakkory wood fetched two dollars a cord. Snow didn t fly off after twas once on, but lay there; summer was short--hat--all yaller days. We used ter have things in abundance in them times, and men used to live twice as long as they do now, --old style, you know. Craps were somethin then; earn was paowerful. That s all over in these abauminable times, --an I m sorry for it, --ain t you? A hundred times has Angelo told me this melancholy tale, --on the fairest, clearest days, when heaven was shining like a new dime, and the peace of Paradise shimmering in the sunlight; he standing in fields deep with grass, in the midst of corn fields covered with drooping ears of promise.--and himself now gone over seventy healthful summers, f is so with true old-fashioned...
