Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Broken Thoughts, and Other Poems I write because I write. I know no other reason. But write as I may, of purpose or purposeless, why print? Why, perforce, appear to a great public, unknown, unannounced, and without calling? Grim necessity speeds the arrow that quavers on the string of inclination. And so I print - offer my thoughts in all their crudity - without the pruning hook of criticism - without the blotting track of revision; bad reasoning and, mayhap, useless trouble, but, so I print. And thou dreaded, generous, lenient public, you have my lines. If not wanted, return them, or, perchance, you discover some merit, and point it out, you will have my thanks. And again, if you subtract their faults, and count them up, still you have my thanks. I slipped my thoughts as they came; and as naught is remembered save that which is worthy of remembrance, and naught is worthy of remembrance save that which will benefit by remembering, I shall regret it if they are to be read to-day and forgotten to-morrow. If, however, there be one shall live until the day after, I am satisfied. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
