CHAPTER X THE DEER AND THE HOUND No plantation really looks natural unless there are deer-hounds loafing on the premises; and among the most exciting game trails in Southern hunting are those found and followed by these same faithful allies of the sportsman. A word of explanation, which is, however, distinctly not one of apology, is perhaps necessary in writing about the deer and the hound. The reason is because in many States the use of dogs in deer-hunting is strictly prohibited by law. I am sure, however, that such a law is not to be interpreted as denouncing as barbarous the use of hounds, but is rather to be considered merely as a measure for the preservation of game. True, in the North, the hounding of deer on ice and on crusted snow is a cruel practice; but the barbarity of it is due less to the method pursued than to the conditions attending such a hunt. I agree with Dr. William T. Hornaday when he contends that deer-hounds should never be used in the North; but I always think such prohibition is geographically limited. For example, I can be in full sympathy with Colonel Roosevelt when he describes how he enjoyed hunting the whitetail with hounds on the plantations on the Gulf Coast of Mr. John McIlhenny and Mr. John M. Parker. But really, if deer were abundant in their Northern haunts, and if they were hunted in the forefront of...
