Then, they learn a specialty which hones those skills. While no one can be totally prepared for battle, the military does the best they can to help soldiers react instinctively to threats. Unfortunately, soldiers aren't re-trained to go home. Brains are amazing computers. They adapt to our environment and write programs which help us to survive. In the case of battle-hardened veterans, those programs are still in place and running. Survival instincts honed on the field of battle can be dangerous for them and innocent bystanders. A dog can provide comfort, unconditional love, and non-judgmental support when a vet needs help readjusting to the civilian world.
