Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 238 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.5in. Excerpt from Fosters Auction Bridge for All A wide experience and correspondence with card players of all sorts has led the author to the conclusion that any text book which addresses itself to any particular class, ranking them according to experience or skill, must fail of its appeal to others of a different class. The scientific treatise that is eagerly perused by the expert is a disappointment to the members of the family that want to learn the leads. The book that is labelled for the beginner is tossed aside by the average player, who thinks he knows it all, and does not even attract a passing glance from the expert. In the following pages the author has endeavored to place the tactics of this fascinating game in such a light that they shall prove attractive to all classes of players. The beginner can find in it the fundamentals, the conventions, of the game. The average player will probably discover many little refinements that he has overlooked or forgotten, while the expert will be given ample opportunity to study some absolutely new theories, which he may have heard of, but which have never been presented to his attention in their proper relation to the rest of the game.
