

Wilderness Voices (Paperback)

By Martha McKown

Christian Faith Publishing, Inc., 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. The title, Wilderness Voices, comes from Isaiah: In the wilderness prepare the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God. As a youth the writer answered her call as Isaiah did, Here am I; send me! Her direction in life and her poetry are her response to God's call. These poems grew out of many thoughts, experiences and relationships. Some are surprisingly funny expressions of comic incidents. Some poems explode with a look at history's treasure house of people, happenings, and events. War and active, but innocent warriors, tie the now with the past. Rows of tobacco or quiet snow can bring up the sadness and pathos of conflict for Mrs. McKown. A often used theme is the natural world. Storms and groanings of creation the benevolence of our biosphere are given colorful attention. Many poems grow from the writer's childhood on a Kentucky farm, the youngest of a large family. Life and death are inspected and celebrated. There are musings on the questions about illness and the experience of aging. A Summer...
