What is the consequence of that, as regards the packets?--The packets arriving as they do, and leaving, as they always have to do, at the earliest or latest, i. e.y lowest state of tides, cannot get within, I would say, 200 yards, or from that to 300 yards, and they lie at anchor in the stream of the river. If a carriage is to go off, it must be embarked in the course of the day by the packet coming alongside, and the mails and passengers get on board of her by means of a boat; and the steepness of the wharf and the zigzag state of the steps and slips, the intervening wooden stages, covered with slimy mud, a routine open to all the river ferry steamers, at the same time the having to pass over those steamers decks, presents a scene of confusion which cannot be described. 3481. Generally speaking, the passengers have to go in row-boats?--Yes, constantly. 3482. Can you form any opinion as to the average number of times in the course of a given period when the steam-packets can lie alongside the pier?--I should say, putting all the times together, she would not lie alongside as many days as would make one month out of the twelve. To give an instance how far starting at five o clock drove them into contrivances, and what the public were exposed to before the new channel was developed...
