The second of the two kinds is described in the words, 2. that collection in which the different component parts are specified each by a term, as for instance of both kinds, gods-andhuman-beings. Now by the expression gods-and-human-beings², the two parts of the collection which are expressed by the words of both kinds have been specified as being separate. An objection is raised, the expression of both kinds does not bring the difference between the parts of that collection into consciousness. How then can we say that the collection in which the different component parts have been described has received names? The reply is in the words of these two. And it is because of these very parts that the term collection can be imposed. By the words Hof both...

Reviews

This book is definitely not straightforward to get started on studying but extremely exciting to read. It is really simplistic but shocks in the 50 percent of the ebook. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.
