Not illustrated. 1906 Excerpt: .at the office of the North China Herald, Shanghai, is a complete commercial guide to the country which it covers. In addition, the Commercial Intelligence Branch of the Board of Trade, of 73, Basinghall Street, London, is provided with a list of the principal British merchants in China. Useful as catalogues and price lists may be to the merchant in China and to trade, there can be no doubt that the visits of commercial agents to China are of far greater value, and former reproaches seem no longer necessary, for during the last two years such visitors have been numerous. It is impossible for me to say what amount of success has attended them, but they have been able to examine at first hand the conditions of the manufactures and trades they represent, and to collect information which written suggestions can never impart. I have spoken...

Reviews

This ebook can be worthy of a read, and much better than other. I have read and i am certain that i am going to planning to go through again once again in the future. You may like just how the writer compose this book.

-- Mr. Grant Stanton PhD

A whole new eBook with an all new standpoint. It is actually rally fascinating throgh reading through time period. You wont truly feel monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogues are for relating to when you request me).
