Whats wrong with this picture Why cant we integrate the tech revolution with the Occupy Movement Why cant we apply tech ingenuity to address systemic economic problems Why cant we transform bits and bytes into a revolution that will change the way we allocate capital and credit in the global economy Why cant we create a revolution one digit at a time, devising new ways to pool our capital and share our resources so that we can create jobs, stimulate the economy and meet the needs of all Americans from Main Street to Wall Street In other words, why cant we create a new code for the global operating system Why cant we build a system that enables us to pool our capital and our creativity in a bold plan a new Commons a Credit Commons, where our capital works for all of us to make the system itself more efficient, more equitable and more empowering The Credit Commons is a bridge across America from Occupy Wall Street to Silicon Valley.
