Working Together for Safety: A State Team Approach to Preventing Occupational Injuries in Young People

By Centers for Disease Control and Preventi

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 50 pages. Dimensions: 11.0in. x 8.5in. x 0.1in. Most young people work at some time during high school. Although working can be a positive experience, it also has risks. The Institute of Medicines Committee on the Health and Safety Implications of Child Labor reports that 50 percent of youths between ages 15 and 17 work at some time during the course of a year and that 80 percent of students work at least some time during high school. Every year, at least 100,000 of these young people seek treatment in an emergency room for a work-related injury. Every year, at least 70 young people are killed on the job. Young people are injured in the workplace at twice the rate of adult workers. Yet no single agency has the ultimate responsibility for protecting young people from workplace hazards. What is needed is an approach that brings coherence and coordination to this mission. A State team for young worker safety is a coalition of agencies and organizations whose goal is to protect the safety and health of young people in the workplace. The American Heritage Dictionary defines a...
