Promise, promise, she cried in a stifled voice, that you will be my friend. Promise that you will stop here as long as Prince Otto remains. CHAPTER XII THE POISONED HAIBBBUSH She lurched towards me, and I caught her arms in my hands to steady her. She drew back her head and laughed, and her laughter was shrill and frightened and hideous. Her mouth was parted in a wild grin, and her hair was tossed back from her forehead in great disorder. Then as suddenly as she had begun to laugh she jerked her head forward, so that her hair tumbled over it and brushed my breast, and burst into a storm of weeping. I was at my wits end to know what to do. I could see that the poor child was hysterical to the verge of madness, and I was no...
