Rodale Books, 1989. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Dust Jacket Condition: Very Good+ DJ. First Edition NL with 1. Rodale Books 1989 First Edition NL with 1 New/Very Good+ DJ Bright jacket shows small mended tears. Review "Climbing Toward the Light by Ardath H. Rodale is an exquisitely sensitive and moving narrative of a remarkable woman's life journey. Her self-revelation of a courageous struggle to find fulfillment and a richly meaningful life, especially in light of her beloved son's AIDS death, should inspire hope, love, and moral strength among thousands who experience, in Pascal's words, "the grandeur and misery of human existence." Ms. Rodale's deserves a very wide audience of those who seek healing light in the midst of stress and darkness."--Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, American Jewish Committee "What an insightful and full-hearted book! Like a letter from a good friend, it speaks the truth in an intimate fashion. Even though I've never met Ardie Rodale, I feel like I now know her family, her struggles, her triumphs, and her gifts of wisdom. I recommend this for anyone who cares about families and living a compassionate life."--Leonard Felder, Ph.D., Author, A Fresh Start: How to Let Go of Emotional Baggage and Enjoy Your Life Again "One woman's pilgrimage through the valley of death and the slough of despond-- Ardath Rodale is Everywoman, her story both personal and universal, unpretentious and yet filled with meaning."--The Rev. F. Forrester Church, Unitarian Church of All Souls, New York City Product DescriptionThe victims of the AIDS virus are not only those who have died. Their families are left behind to cope with the tragedy of a life-- often a young life-- taken quickly and cruelly. Such is the story of David and Ardie Rodale. David was a musician, playwright, painter, computer expert, a 30-year-old whose creativity...
