Excerpt from Land Classification as a Basis for Land Appraisal and Equalization of Tax Assessments: Report on the Land Classification Study in Nevada Township, Story County, Iowa In the past few years an increasing amount of attention has been given to the categorical treatment of land areas under the general term land classification. Both as to objectives and as to form, the procedures which have been included under this name have been very diverse. The very great diversity of form and features, which are necessary to meet the different purposes which land classification may serve, leads to the inference that there is no one type of land classification which serves equally well all possible purposes, or answers all questions which, on occasion, need to be answered concerning the differential treatment of land. Hence, almost any land classification will logically be undertaken to serve some stated purpose or purposes, and to answer certain specific questions.
