While we may not see eye to eye on the matter of radio consolidation, I am happy that he is here today. In recent months we have heard about many FCC agenda meet-ings postponed all day while closed negotiations on important pub-lic matters were conducted. We have witnessed too much sniping among the Commissioners, and we have heard too many tales of short-circuited decision-making processes. In sum, the FCC ap-pears to be broken. The victim in this breakdown is a fair, open, and transparent regulatory process, or is it perhaps that the transparent and open regulatory process is not available and that that is the cause of the events before us The real loser, of course, is the public interest and the American consumer. When the process breaks down, reasoned analysis and debate suffer. The public confidence in the agency is shaken. This com-mittee is responsible for overseeing the Commission, and I think...
