In the House of Commons, 17th May, 1836, on Moving a Resolution Relative to the Periodical Revision of Tolls and Charges Levied on Rail Roads and Other Public Works IN bringing forward the motion of which I have given notice, if I trespass for a short time on the attention of the House, I must plead the importance and magnitude of the interests involved in the question as my excuse. Honourable Members, Sir, may differ from me on this subject; some may consider my apprehensions as altogether unfounded - some, admitting the evil which I would seek to remedy, may think I exaggerate its probable effects - whilst others, perhaps, agreeing that something is necessary to be done, may allege that the remedy I propose is inapplicable or insufficient; but all must allow that the change now going on, and which is likely at no distant period to transfer our chief public conveyances from the King's highways to a number of joint-stock Railway Companies, is a subject which demands the early, the deliberate, and the serious attention of Parliament.
