The Psalter has been called the hymnbook of all the ages. Its poetry is set to music. It is made to be sung. As Carlyle says, all poetry is musical thought. To this collection of sacred lyrics, begun by David and not completed until after the exile in which Hebrew harps were hung on the willows beside the Babylonian stream, the New Testament adds another group of Messianic psalms, recorded by Luke in his beautiful story of the Advent of the Christ. Whenever heaven touches earth and God and man come together, the celestial harmonies take the sounds of this world, clothe their disorder with rhythm, arrange their jangling sequences into melody, and blend their harsh dissonances into euphony. Christmas lends a new splendor to the stars and a new sweetness to song. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
