Excerpt from An Exposition of the Old and New Testament, Vol. 4 of 9: Wherein Each Chapter Is Summed Up in Its Contents; The Sacred Text Inserted at Large in Distinct Paragraphs; Each Paragraph Reduced to Its Proper Heads; The Sense Given, and Largely Illustrated; Psalms to Song of Solomon WE have now before us one of the choicest and most excellent parts of all the Old Testament; nay, so much is there in it of christ and his gospel, as well as of God and his law, that it has been called the abstract, or summary, of both Testaments. The History of Israel, which we were long upon, led us to camps and council-boards, and there entertained and instructed us in the knowledge of God. The book of Job brought us into the schools, and treated us with profitable disputations concerning God and his providence. But this book brings us into the sanctuary, draws us off from converse with men, with the politicians, philosophers, or disputers of this world, and directs us into communion with God, by solacing and reposing...
