URBANIZATION AND EDUCATION

Discovery Publishing House Pvt. Ltd., 2006. Softcover. Condition: New. The world's Cities are growing far faster than its population. Indeed, aside from the growth of Population itself, urbanisation is the dominant demographic trend of the half-century now ending. In 1950, 750 million of the world's people lived in cities. By 1996, this had at least tripled, to more than 2.6 billion. The number projected to live in cities by 2050, some 6.5 billion people, exceeds World population today. Urbanisation on...
