Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel? We knew that he would die; and yet we never thought of death when we thought of him. He was the embodiment of life: the concentration of its energies: a force guiding, controlling destiny: a master among the masters of men; and when the news came that he was dead it struck us with surprise. For the moment it seemed that in tearing from earths heart one of its choicest and mightiest souls Death had outdone itself. We were silent: stunned as it were. Theodore Roosevelt was dead! And he was taken away at this time: when we felt that his country, and verily the world itself, had most need of him.
