The blood again began to circulate through the veins, and enjoyable as the heat was, the sharp tingling in the hands and feet caused the girls acute pain. Then came a feeling of pleasant drowsiness. It will do them no harm to go to sleep, I suppose Mr. Hawtreys asked Giuseppe. No, monsieur. Now that they are warm it is the best thing for them. We will keep up the fire. Scarcely a word had yet been spoken. Both Mr. Hawtreys and his friend were completely exhausted. Since they had left the glacier they had staggered along in a half-stupefied condition, feeling that in spite of their exertions they were gradually becoming more and more chilled. As soon as the fire blazed up and there was nothing more to do for the girls, they had thrown themselves down near the fire, and a feeling of drowsiness, against which they had been fighting ever since the storm struck them, was now almost overpowering. Giuseppe produced from his wallet a bottle of wine and some cold meat and bread. These had formed part of the supply that had been brought up for lunch. The rest had been left behind, at the spot where they had started on the glacier. Let us eat, monsieur, he said to Captain Armstrong. But the others will want something when they wake. Conrad will start as soon as he has eaten, monsieur, to get help. It is two oclock now; he will be down at the village in three hours, and will bring up porters and food. The ladies will not be able to walk. It has been a narrow escape. It has...
