Spear, in the Summer of 1852, Containing Important Instruction to the Inhabitants of the Earth, Carefully Prepared for Publication, With a Sketch of the Author s Earthly Life, and a Brief Description of the Spi The following work is presented to the public from a sense of duty, and also with much pleasure, in anticipation of the high moral gratification and radical utility these messages will undoubtedly afford and promote. In regard to the source of these productions, there will, of course, be a variety of opinions, in the present state of public thought on the subject of spiritual science and philosophy. But, whatever may be the final judgment of a fair and manly investigation of these modern wonders, one thing, I think, is clear, - that the intrinsic importance of the doctrines advocated in these messages will be no less, so far as they are true, whatever may have been their origin. All truth is of God, and addresses itself to the intelligence of man; so that reason becomes the ultimate subjective authority throughout the whole field of its most normal operations. And by speaking thus of reason, the heart-principle is by no means underrated, inasmuch as a healthy reason must have a healthy heart.
