NEW AGE ECONOMICS (PAPERBACK)

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . New Age Economics compares the economic discipline with religion as individual behavior molders. The book starts by examining some very basic principles of economics. Next, the use of language to create impressions using meekness and competitiveness is demonstrated. A broad examination and comparison of Socialism, Communism, Capitalism, and Fascism in terms of economic activity and control follows. The book explains the presence of emotional, mental, and spiritual rewards/resources, when combined with the production and distribution of physical resources, makes for complicated economic calculations. Since many emotional, mental, and spiritual rewards are invisible, these rewards are actually impossible to quantify creating the current problems worldwide which appear beyond traditional economic control. Lastly this book analyzes the Ten Commandments through an economic outlook as well as other viewpoints. The analysis supports a horizontal civilization structure which would make economic calculations much, much simpler and avoid the worst atrocities of underlying Totalitarian tendencies for leadership in any economic system when faced with overpopulation or anticipated failure foisting loser labels on those holding the bag of responsibility. This book is written in an informal, clear, informative style which both engages and at times entertains the reader. Encouraging the reader to think matters through for himself, the book provides a solid jumping off point for personal tailoring of the conclusions where everyone has a different social experience within the civilization environment. The anticipated impact on society and the reader is recognition of the role overpopulation plays in establishing and maintaining hierarchy structured civilizations. Additionally, the reader will come away with the recognition of each individual s worth and a personal philosophical inclination toward tolerance and love supported by a humane equality civilization structure with a generous...
