

Determinants Of Growth From Leasing Sector Of Pakistan

By Naqvi, Syeda Nadia

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Determinants of Growth: Empirical Evidence From Leasing Sector Of Pakistan | Pakistan leasing sector is a major component of non banking financial institution (NBFI) and has played a vital role in economic growth of Pakistan. Leasing is an institutional arrangement that channelize resources to small and medium size enterprises to fund their business needs. The objective of this study is to empirically examine the relationship between the growth and its determinants (Liquidity, Leverage, Profitability, Size, Inflation, and Terrorism) on the leasing sector of Pakistan over the period of 2005-2008. The relationship is determined by applying Ordinary Least Square Regression, Pearson Correlation and Descriptive Statistics. The result of the study indicates that there is a positive relationship between growth, leverage and profitability, and a negative relationship between growth and terrorism. The study found positive but insignificant relationship between size, inflation and liquidity with growth. The comparative analysis between leasing firms and Modarabas shows that there exist positive relationships between profitability, Size with Growth but statistically significant in leasing firms and insignificant in Modarabas. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 64 pp.

READ ONLINE
[5.93 MB]

Reviews

It is easy in read through easier to fully grasp. it had been writtern very completely and useful. I am pleased to let you know that here is the greatest book we have read during my personal life and could be he very best book for possibly.

-- Miss Marge Jerde

It is really an remarkable publication i actually have possibly study. It usually is not going to cost excessive. Its been written in an exceedingly basic way and is particularly only right after i finished reading this publication through which basically transformed me, affect the way i think.

-- Dr. Breana O'Kon